Indictment against Covic, others

Hays, Cliff
call on Covic
to resign

FTV by Ognjen Blagojevic – The British Ambassador to BiH, Ian Cliff, informed Dragan Covic on the position of the EU countries and Peace Implementation Council regarding the indictment issued against him, under which Covic should resign if the BiH Court confirms charges. Cliff stressed such move would be in the interest of BiH and would not be directed against Croats in BiH, reports FTV adding that Cliff didn't want to give this statement for the record due to agreement on this with Covic. PDHR Donald Hays stated that the person against whom the bill of indictment was issued should resign until acquitting sentence is passed. "I think that it would be better if he resigns, that way all suspicions in relation to potential pressure and impact on the trial would be removed. From the position he holds, he can still exert influence... I personally think that the right thing to do for the indicted person is to resign", said Hays. Hayat Asim Beslija – "Moving of an indictment presents a serious process. Persons, who are in executive positions, are expected to resign if charged with criminal activities", said OHR Spokesperson Vedran Persic .

VL carries a facsimile of a part of minutes (dated on December 30, 2004) from the interview that Covic had with Prosecutor Matts Mattson, from which it is clear that two OHR employees were present during the interview. The persons in question are Mia Civic-Alijevic, apparently a lawyer in the OHR, and Erik Larson, an OHR official. VL also got a confirmation from a senior Croat official in BiH that one of Ashdown's deputies, "who yesterday sent a public message 'retire, president'", (PDHR Hays) was assuring Covic two months ago that allegations in the indictment were groundless.
DA: Ashdown told Colak that Covic should resign	Dnevni Avaz pg 2 'If BiH Court confirms the indictment, Covic has to resign' by F. However, the HDZs stance on the issue will be known only after the session of the HDZ Presidency, following the confirming of the indictment. According to DA, while BiH Court has 8 days to confirm the indictment, it has information that this could happen as early as today.

And it is on those indicted to defend themselves." Dani pg 7 'Dragan Covic' – "Seeing Dragan Covic off behind the bars will mark the turning point in untouchable position of masters of serious war and post-war crime which, until now, were successfully protected by the positions," reads the article.
SD notes Croats are always subject of investigations	Slobodna Dalmacija, pg 14 'Indictment is shaking foundations of the state', by Zlatko Tulic – The daily argues that the indictment against Dragan Covic and others will for sure cause changes in the BiH Presidency, BiH Constitutional Court, FBiH Parliament, probably in the HDZ and Radom za Boljitak party and in a number of companies that are linked with Covic and the Lijanovics. The author also notes that a mere spectator cannot escape an impression that it is only the Croats in BiH that create problems, citing the cases of Croat self-rule, Hercegovacka bank, corruption in companies and governments and now the Constitutional Court, as if the other two peoples do not have "big-wigs" worth looking into.

Head of Trebinje municipality Dobroslav Cuk feels that Bosniak national interest was not endangered by the amendments to the law on executive procedure, which postpones payment in the war damage compensation case of Alijagic brothers. He expressed hope that international community will get involved so the matter can be resolved.

SNSD feels that blockade of these amendments represents further agony for municipalities Trebinje and Vlasenica.

About 550.000 KM were transferred to Alijagic's account so far. Nezavisne Novine pg 8 'RS Council of Peoples used for private interests' by V.D. – also carries.

Popic claims Alijagic's claims are ungrounded, hence he has no grounds on basis of which he could file a lawsuit.

DL op-ed on Ashdown's statement regarding BiH as a black hole

Dnevni List, pg 2 'Black hole', by Marko Karacic – Commenting on a statement by Paddy Ashdown, who stated two days ago that BiH could become a black hole if the situation in the country does not get better, the author wonders whether the HR was mistaken and whether he was talking about some other country, claiming that majority of BiH citizens believe that BiH is and has been a black hole for the past ten years. "How else to assess the situation in the country in which 100.000 pensioners receive pensions that amount to less than 200 KMs, in which the passport of the country you live in is valid nowhere and in which you first have to read the Criminal Code to realize whom the people vote for", claims the author.

SB: Frenchman to replace Ashdown?

Slobodna Bosna pgs 24-26 'Ashdown's departure – countdown has started: Frenchman will be Ashdown's successor', mentioned on cover 'Frenchmen replace Ashdown' by D. Savic carries that for months, international, diplomatic circles have been talking informally about a possible candidate who would replace HR Paddy Ashdown at the end of this year. SB also says that, allegedly, the PIC has already told Ashdown to restrain from passing any big decisions in the next 6 months. SB says that their collocutors claim that France and Germany have shown the biggest interest for the HR's position after Ashdown's departure. According to the article, Germany does not have its candidate yet, while French candidates are former French Ambassador to BiH Bernard Bajolet and former Head of the UN Mission in Kosovo Bernard Coughner. SB also says that now it is quite certain that the future HR will not have the authorities that Ashdown currently has, and the current form of the OHR will gradually change and then the OHR will shut down.
