Ashdown to review the status of sacked officials in BiH	RHB, TV Pink, BHT, Hayat, FTV, RTRS, AFP, Oslobođenje cover page, pgs 4-5 'OHR to 'pardon' those removed over obstructions' Alda Omeragic, Dnevni Avaz pg 4 'Review of decisions on removal of 100 officials starts', mentioned on cover 'Review of decisions on removal of 100 officials', Dnevni List pg 3, mentioned on cover 'Paddy Ashdown returns (to office) removed officials', Vecernji List cover page, pgs 2-3 'Amnesty for removed officials', Glas Srpske cover page 'Competition for the obedient ones', Nezavisne Novine cover page, pg 3 'Decisions on removals to be reviewed' – The High Representative, Paddy Ashdown, said Friday he would review the status of some 100 sacked officials so they can resume work. "Some individuals who, because they have changed or because circumstances in which they were removed have changed ... we conclude they are no longer a danger to the peace process and therefore can resume public life," said Ashdown, who has the power to sack officials under the 1995 Dayton peace accords. Ashdown said a list of those who would be allowed to hold public office again would be completed in the next six weeks. Ashdown and his predecessors have dismissed and banned from public office 150 officials, mainly for obstructing the implementation of the accords or for supporting fugitive war crimes suspects. They include a member of BiH Presidency, and a president and prime minister of the RS. According to Vecerni List, Nikola Grabovac and Edhem Bicakcic are amongst those hoping to be rehabilitated, while Mirko Sarovic and Ante Jelavic cannot expect that.

RS President Cavic says Ashdown announcement to review removals a positive development	RHB, FTV, AFP – RS President Dragan Cavic hailed HR Ashdown's announcement to review decisions on removals of public office holders as a positive development. "Such a decision represents a positive approach," Cavic told journalists in Banja Luka on Friday. "I expect that a large number of people who were suspended and sanctioned ... without any real reason could be rehabilitated," Cavic added. Glas Srpske cover page 'Lawsuits filed', Nezavsine Novine pg 3 'Dragan Cavic expects a large number of rehabilitations' also carried Cavic's statement.
Former HR Petritsch, dismissed RS President Poplasen on HR announcement to review decisions on removals	BHT Marina Boskovic – Former High Representative in BiH Wolfgang Petritsch supported the decision of HR Paddy Ashdown to revise the dismissals of officials. He stressed that nobody can be punished forever. "BiH has to become a country where government rules. I was dismissing people who obstructed the return. The return has progressed now and those people aren't obstacle any more. I completely acclaim and support the decision of Paddy Ashdown", said Petritsch. The reactions on Ashdown's move on revising the removal decisions are different. From 1998 to 2003, the High Representatives imposed more than 450 decisions and regulations and about 100 persons have been dismissed who were on different positions in public and political life. Nikola Poplasen was dismissed from the position of RS President in 1999, because obstruction of forming of the legitimate Government lead by Milorad Dodik. "Many people from in BiH as well as in RS were dismissed because that was an agreement between criminals who belonged to certain nation and International Community. If that connection is broken, probably the most of those people will be rehabilitated", said Nikola Poplasen. Most of public don't believe that this Ashdown's decision is the moral act. Paddy Ashdown announced that domestic institutions can be involved in revision of some dismissals in the future.

FTV source says OHR decision on review of removals result of US pressures and pressures of domestic and international judicial institutions	FTV Sanjin Beciragic – According to FTV source, new OHR decision on revision of its own removal decisions is result of US pressures as well as pressures of domestic and international judiciary institutions. This is especially interesting after the High Representative, Paddy Ashdown, refused to remove Croat member of the BiH Presidency, Dragan Covic, after BiH prosecution issued indictment against him in relation to Lijanovici tax frauds case. The HR in Covic's case is waiting for indictment confirmation by the Court of BiH, even though he didn't respected the court decisions in the case of de-certified police officers, commented reporter. According to FTV source, the HR justifies his decision not to remove Covic by words that Covic didn't worked against Dayton peace Agreement. The best example of the OHR's double standards is visible in the case of Nikola Grabovac, removed F BiH Finance Minister, and Edhem Bicakcic, removed "Elektroprivreda" Director, states reporter. "Simply, without investigation, without proves, without any possibility to appeal, things lead to violation of basic human rights defined in the article 6 of the European declaration on human rights", said Bicakcic. As the most impudent OHR's removal decision, reporter described the decision on Grabovac removal. Decision was made on Grabovac's moral responsibility for illegal action in relation to customs and company "Amsped". There were speculations on criminal charges against him which were never filed and on his responsibility for not controlling the use of public income. Reporter asked Grabovac what does he think – would he be removed if he wasn't in conflict with the International Monetary Fund and with the World Bank. "I think I would not be removed", answered Grabovac. Reporter explained that Grabovac opposed to the IMF and the WB in relation to distribution of the income and priorities in expenditures. Reporter concluded with words that new OHR's decision on revision of removal decisions is noting else that retreat before the pressures on new removals of judges and politicians and attempt of washing of its hands from earlier wrong decisions and failures.

RTRS: Reactions to HR's review of dismissed officials	RTRS Vesna Cibic – HR Paddy Ashdown's announcement of revision process for dismissed officials already caused certain reactions in RS. Bosko Lemes dismissed SDS official was still not aware of the announcement when contacted by RTRS. RS President Dragan Cavic stated that HR's decision means that there are positive steps forward in future RS political life. Cavic reminds that around 50 SDS members started court proceedings for human rights violation. Certain experts feel that HR in a way admitted that a mistake was made and authorities were overstepped. Tanja Topic political analyst says that OHR will never directly admit it. Experts also wonder why 2004, when most dismissals happened, will not be involved in the revision process. Reporter concludes that whatever happens HR has the power to dismiss or give amnesty regardless of the outside pressures.
