Chief ICTY Prosecutor meets HR: Serb authorities could arrest Mladic, but want him to surrender; Mladic to be in Hague by May 11?; Karadzic not forgotten, EUFOR/NATO's assistance expected in locating him	BHT 1by Damir Simic – The ICTY Chief Prosecutor Carla Del Ponte on Friday met the High Representative to BiH Christian Schwarz Schilling in Sarajevo. Del Ponte was visibly disappointed with the failure of Serbian authorities to keep the promise on arrest Ratko Mladic: "Mladic is a big disappointment for me because Serbian Prime Minister Vojislav Kostunica has promised me and the EU Enlargement Commissioner Oli Rehn that Mladic will be arrested and extradited by the end of April." As for the BiH, HR reminded that he would use Bonn powers in case of obstructing the cooperation with the Tribunal adding BiH cannot afford calling off the talks on the Stabilisation and Association Agreement with EU: "We are going to monitor this very closely in order to prevent it from happening. We have to very carefully observe the actions undertaken in BiH, especially in the RS." Hayatby Adnan Rondic – Noting that BiH, especially RS, are not fully cooperating with the Tribunal, Del Ponte noted some more time would be given to the RS Prime Minister Milorad Dodik: "We hope that the new RS Prime Minister, as he said publicly, would ensure full cooperation with the ICTY. I hope I'll be able to say whether I'm satisfied with that cooperation or not the next time I visit BiH." While in Sarajevo, Del Ponte also met BiH Chief State Prosecutor Marinko Jurcevic discussing a transfer of documents from The Hague to the courts in BiH. FTV by Azra Pasukan-Buljina– Del Ponte [whose visit report commented as causing 'only traffic jam' and brining nothing new] told the press conference that remaining 6 ICTY fugitives would be "behind the bars" before the end her mandate in 2010: "I'm an optimist and I believe that Mladic could be in The Hague by the 11 May." She added Radovan Karadzic hasn't been forgotten, admitting "there are not enough information on Karadzic whereabouts and if he is hiding in SiCG or RS. I asked EUFOR and NATO to get more involved and determine if [fugitives] are in RS or SiCG in order to expand the search". The HR added: "We have no concrete information on the RS but we hope SiCG would start to cooperate because it is not good for the region to make such backward steps." PINK – "I did not forget Karadzic. I am focused on Mladic in last weeks and months... Someone else in my office is responsible for Karadzic and follows the situation. As soon as Mladic is arrested, Karadzic will become priority," said the Chief Prosecutor. RHB– Del Ponte expressed certainty the Serbian authorities were capable of capturing Mladic, but failed to do so because they wanted him to surrender voluntarily. After the meeting with the HR and EUFOR Commander Gian Marco Chiarini, she emphasized that her office is in contact with war crimes prosecutors in Sarajevo, Belgrade and Zagreb on a daily basis. RTRS also reported focusing on Del Ponte's remarks on Mladic and HR's statement on Bonn powers. Conference on establishing truth in Western Balkans: BiH Presidency member Jovic criticised for single-sided approach to war victims; Jovic: ICTY closed its doors, and nobody is to be held responsible for crimes against Croats	FTV by Zeljko Tica – The conference on “Establishing Truth in a Post-conflict Period: Initiatives and Perspectives in the Western Balkans” was held in Sarajevo on Friday, in organization of the Research and Documentation Centre Sarajevo, Humanitarian Law Fund Belgrade and Documents from Zagreb. Addressing the conference, BiH Presidency member Ivo Miro Jovic focused on sufferings of Croats: “I’m concerned with the fact that the people I belong to has more than 45% population missing; ICTY has closed the doors and no one is going to be responsible for the sufferings of the Croats”. Some of the participants, including Director of Investigative Centre, Mirsad Tokaca, criticized Jovic’s speech underlying “the most dangerous thing is to deal with the victims only when it is the ethno-national issue. Then you make the first strategic mistake. You deal with victims only when they are members of your people”. Austrian Ambassador to BiH Werner Almhof reminded the most of the military leaders or politicians have been transferred to the Tribunal. ICTY Chief Prosecutor Carla Del Ponte stated that the current situation is far from being perfect especially as many war crimes haven’t yet been investigated: “Tribunal can work only on the gravest war crimes.” She concluded that processes in the Hague are not sufficient as not all victims got a chance to talk. BiH Chief Prosecutor Marinko Jurcevic expressed belief that the justice would be served through courts, noting prosecutors around BiH are checking about 13000 cases and adding the strategic plan for period to 2010 was made. Hayat by Zumra Arnautovic – Hayat also commented that at the very beginning of the conference it was clear that the opinions and stances of NGO sector and politicians differ greatly, especially when it comes to the treatment of victims, which was clear from Jovic’s statement: “The fact that nobody was held responsible for proven existence of 40 camps in which BiH Croats were held is shameful. I wonder if the numerous testimonies of victims and witnesses are irrelevant for The Hague Tribunal, since it is the fact that numerous crimes have been simply left out of the verdicts, while so far not a single BiH Army member has been found guilty for crimes committed against BiH Croats.” Nezavisne novine pg 3 ‘Support to the establishment of Truth Commission in BiH’ – NN learns that the draft Law on the truth Commission would soon be in procedure. RTRS noted that although the conference was about the truth on war crimes in BiH, no representative form the RS Association of families of killed and missing Serb civilians and soldiers from East Sarajevo and RS Association of Prisoners of War were invited. PINK, BHT 1, Dnevni Avaz pg 2 ‘Nobody can dispute genocide in Srebrenica’, Glas Srpske pg 3 ‘Only together we reach truth’, Dnevni list pg 3 ‘Not all victims got a chance to speak’ – reported. Concluding from intensity of current activities, it seems that the search is real this time,” reads the editorial. It concludes that the option according to which Serbian authorities do know where is Mladic but protect him is very unlikely, especially having in mind difficult situation in the country and huge pressure from the IC.

SIPA arrests police officer in Visegrad under war crimes suspicion; Bakira Hasecic: this is not single case which makes it clear why RS rejects police reform	FTV by Sanja Bagaric – Zeljko Lelek, certified police officer working at Visegrad Police Station, was arrested by the SIPA members in cooperation by the Visegrad Public Security Centre on Friday morning under suspicion of committing the war crimes. During the action, two apartments have been raided and SIPA members have gathered some evidence. SIPA acted upon the order of BiH Prosecutor's Office and its spokesman Admir Katica confirmed the arrestee was handed to BiH Prosecution for further proceeding. Bakira Hasecic, Head of Association "Women, victims of war", commented this Association had been requesting from the BIH Prosecution for the past five year to arrest Lelek. "The saddest thing is that we, the victims, are forced to track the war crime indictees ad collect the evidence on their involvement. Lelek is not the only certified police officer in RS that has committed war crimes but nevertheless performs his police duties. Now, it is evident why the smaller BIH Entity refuses the police reform," noted Hasecic. FTV concludes critically wondering who certifies war crimes suspects to work in the police and similar institutions. Hayat also reported noting that it is possible to find on the internet numerous testimonies accusing Lelek of crimes against Bosniak civilians, especially in organizing rapes and tortured in Visegrad. SDP leader Zlatko Lagumdzija stated that two multi-ethnic blocks were created following the rejection of the reform in the BiH House of Representatives: “One block consists of those of us who voted for the amendments, and the other side [gathers] (Vojislav) Seselj’s Radicals, [Mate] Boban’s supporters [note: i.e. HDZ 1990] and (Haris) Silajdzic’s fake patriots who managed to destroy everything. Covic – who objects entity vote in the parliament – said the proposed amendments included what was possible to compromise at the time, adding he believes that entity would eventually be abolished. Asked whether the party has been weakened, Covic acknowledge some losses of votes due over to NHI or HDZ 1990, but underlined: "To go back to messages from Humphreys, US Ambassador, others... Those who criticized HDZ the most now thank us and send us message that we are the ones who could lead its people and state in direction of normalization." He concluded HDZ expects to win 60% of Croat votes at upcoming elections.

Oslobodjenje op-ed: Due to const. reform failure, nothing new at upcoming elections, just loss of money	Oslobodjenje pg 9 'Money loss!' op-ed by Mirko Sagolj – Commenting upcoming general elections to be held on 1 October, author says that nothing much should be expected, as there would be no significant political changes. "Authorities will again be taken by nationalistic and political tradesmen," says Sagolj who is also very critical of SBiH, SDU and BOSS for rejecting constitutional reforms. Noting that in the RS regardless of who wins same mentality is to remain at power, author argues situation is something more complex in FBiH as the main battle is to be between SDA, HDZ, SDP and number of their "surrogates", SBiH, SDU and HDZ 1990. The only hope, says Sagolj, is in hands of SDP and Movement for changes of making some changes. If they fail, concludes editorial, elections are nothing more than a money loss.

EU's Javier Solana: PRD adopted opinion in 'good faith'; if consensus cannot be reach, PRD should decide by majority vote

Dnevni Avaz pg 5 'By rejecting police reform, RS sends bad signal' by S. Numanovic – In a statement to DA, the EU High Representative for Foreign Policy, Javier Solana, stated that the failure of the RS to adopt the Police Reform Directorate's opinion adopted on Wednesday is regretful and sends bad signal. He says the opinion "is just a first step in implementing one of three EU principles on police reform" adding the "police reform is a key condition for Stabilization and Association process". Solana also says that the method of work and decision-making in the PRD has been carried out in "good faith": "Proposals and suggestion which came from the RS side were not excluded. If consensus cannot be reached, the Directorate has no other choice but to continue working by brining decision on grounds of majority votes. That is the way which can ensure that the job is finished on time." If BiH fails in the reform, says Solana, it could face very serious consequences.

VL int with PRD SB Chair: No to police organization on entity level	Vecernji list pg 6 'NO to organization of police on entity level' by Dejan Jazvic – In an interview to VL, the Chair of the Reform Directorate Steering Board, Vinko Dumancic, said that the Board has adopted the opinion instead of the decision on future police structure in an effort to make the stance closer to the RS officials. RHB comment on police reform: IC made mistake
by preferring Bosniaks and Serbs, marginalizing
Croats

RHB By Ivica Simunovic – Dayton Peace Agreement brought peace to BiH, but it also significantly endangered the future of this country; RHB comments that Dayton prevents all attempts to change something in BiH. For example, Serbs supported constitutional changes, because those changes suited them; on the other hand, they oppose the police reform, because it does not suit them. But, according to RHB commentator, the main problem is that International Community believes that the solution can be reached by preferring one of the two ‘strong players’ – i.e. Serbs and Bosniaks – when they need to. That strategy proved to be completely wrong, because marginalized Croats have managed to stop the constitutional changes, partially thanks to the fact that Party for BiH was also against those changes. Serbs were against the proposed concept of the police reform, and the result is – blocked reform process. RHB commentator deems that International Community, and especially United States and Great Britain, made a crucial mistake when they tried to incorporate their own experiences into the solutions for BiH, instead of taking Switzerland as a model. It seems like the International Community does not want to start the discussion about the key thing: internal organisation of BiH, concluded RHB commentator.

GS op-ed: reforms go around in vicious circles, RS PM Dodik was right to react	Glas Srpske pg 2 'Reforms in words' op-ed by Pantelija Matavulj – Author refers to the news on two currently most spoken reforms in BiH – constitutional and police – wondering whether all developments only makes us spin around in "vicious circle". However, he did note that RS PM Milorad Dodik, timely send the letter to the members of the Police Reform Directorate Steering Board reminding that the decision must be brought by consensus. Everything else, says Matavulj, would mean that the solution is imposed. He is also critical of the statement by the UK Ambassador, Matthew Rycroft, who stated last week that due to the failure of the constitutional reform elections results could be disputed, and author strongly argues "that the elections and its results cannot be crossed out."
