Mikerevic: Arrest of war crimes indictees priority for RS	Herceg Bosna Radio, RTRS, Oslobođenje pg 4 ‘Non-apprehension of war criminals negative for RS’, Dnevni Avaz pg 4, SRNA – The fact that no war crimes indictees have been arrested so far despite certain measures and activities which have been taken to this end reflects negatively on the credibility of the RS institutions, it was assessed on Monday at the expert collegium of the RS Ministry of Interior. It was agreed that members of the RS Ministry of Interior in cooperation with the RS Government’s Secretariat for Relations with the Hague Tribunal need, in the shortest period possible, to visit accessible family members of war crimes indictees and brief them once again about the decision of the RS government which provides financial assistance and other privileges in cases of voluntary surrender. Start of new school year

BHTV – With start of new school year, 54 schools in FBiH are part of action/campaign “two schools under one roof”. Aim of this action is to discontinue segregation in schools and to bring Bosniak and Croat pupils and students together in classrooms, but still, only roofs are common. Marina Boskovic reports on beginning of school year in primary school in Vitez where kids are playing together in a front of schools but they enter into schools through different doors, depending on their nationality. Director of Croat curriculum part of the school says that politics is guilty for division, but that uniting of schools is possible only if the right on language is guaranteed. Seid Masnica reports on beginning of school year in Mostar gymnasium where students will be divided by two curricula, even though they are now again in the same building. Mostar officials sees this as another step forward in Hercegovina-Neretva Canton education system development, thanks to support of governments of Norway, Germany, Spain, Turkey, and Japan. Mostar Mayor Hamdija Jahic stated: “Mostar’s gymnasium in education is the same thing as Old bridge in cultural and historical terms. It is symbol of this town and we brought it to its purpose now”. Natalija Popadic reports from Kozarac. RS authorities agreed with FBiH authorities that, if there are more than 18 students in one class of other nationalities (non Serb), they have right to listen group of national subjects in their national language, what is respected in Kozarac. Decision on administrative unification of schools in FBiH supposed to be implemented by the beginning of new school year. The OSCE stated that they wait for acts of good will from some political parties. “That is kind of segregation, but we also look at the administrative aspect and this is about money wasting at the time when this money is needed for education process itself”, said OSCE spokesperson, Richard Medic.

New school year brings new strikes	FTV – First new school year day in Herzegovina-Neretva (HNC) and Una-Sana Cantons (USC) is marked with strike announcements and in Tuzla Canton with police announcement of serious fight against drugs dealing in schoolyards. Education workers in USC will go on strike on September 27 if education unions do not reach agreement with USC Government on amount of basis for salaries, harmonisation of teachers' salaries with those of other budget users and on payment of bonus for this year. Education workers in HNC will go on strike on September 20 if Government does not fulfil their demands until then. HNC Education Unions ask increase of salaries for 30%, just as much as ministers' salaries are increased, harmonisation of salaries base for all budget users, payment of contributions for September, October and November and to obey regulations for collective agreement on bonus payment. Education Unions also demand reaching of agreement on taking care for possible surplus of technical staff. Members of Tuzla Canton Ministry of Interior increased number of their patrols on Monday morning around Tuzla schools. Reason is many false bomb alerts last year in schools and possible drugs dealing in schoolyards.
Two curricula in CBC this year again	FTV – Two curricula will remain for about 40.000 pupils and students in primary and secondary schools in Central Bosnia Canton (CBC). CBC Education Minister Nikola Lovrinovic stated: "Schools continue to work as they did before, but now they respect decision imposed by the High Representative." (Not clear statement!) Lovrinovic does not expect any significant changes even after CBC Assembly session on Thursday (expected to pass legislation necessary for the implementation of the plan for unification of schools in the Canton), since his belief is that this situation cannot be solved by political decisions. Conditions for nine years primary education are not fulfilled in this Canton and 450 less new pupils arrived in schools this year.

When it comes to arrest of war criminals, Radovan Karadzic in particular, Dodik says that the RS authorities were through stories on capture of Karadzic in fact building an epic myth that he cannot be caught, noting that everyone, who is charged with war crimes, has to go to The Hague and prove his/her innocence. Questioned to comment on a thesis that the Serbs in Mostar are divided into SDA/SBiH and HDZ-loyal Serbs, Dodik says some of those Serbs were in fact taking care of their personal, material and other statuses, noting that it is clear that the policy of the SDA and HDZ in Mostar expelled many Serbs from the city. However, Dodik says there is a possibility that the SNSD has post-election cooperation with the HDZ if it results in a clear political agreement about some political issues.

PDHR Hays: Introduction of too many VAT rates could reduce public revenues

Herceg Bosna Radio, Oslobođenje pg 6
'Too many rates not good', Dnevni Avaz pg 4
'VAT Law must not be complicated at the very beginning', FENA – The introduction of VAT will help the BiH economy, but at the same time ensure adequate revenue for the functioning of state and entity institutions, Principal Deputy High Representative Donald Hays told FENA on Monday. Commenting on ongoing debates on the draft VAT Law, and especially on the possible introduction of different VAT rates, Hays said that this law needed to be in accordance with EU standards. "This is critical because the EU stressed that this is a precondition for entering the accession process," Hays said. He urged BiH parliamentarians to fully use the expertise they have at their disposal within the Government and the international community. Hays stressed that if this law is made too complicated in the beginning its implementation will be almost impossible. He reminded that only 50 percent of BiH citizens are paying taxes and stressed that what needs to be developed is a more transparent system in which the people will have more faith and that will be easier to manage. If too many rates are set then it will probably be difficult to explain the law, funds will be difficult to collect and instead of increasing, revenues will decrease. "We need to think practically. You can always adjust the system once it starts to function and when people know how to deal with it," Hays told FENA.
