IWPR: War Crime
Trials Lottery
in BiH

TV Pink, Oslobođenje pg 4 'Many of those suspected of committing crimes will never be brought to account' Hugh Griffiths – Hundreds of war crimes suspects in BiH are likely to evade prosecution because the judicial authorities lack resources and are frequently reluctant to mount trials, analysts say. The Bosnian state prosecutor's office has told IWPR that it has amassed evidence implicating just over 10,000 people in war crimes. The evidence is based on documents filed by Federation and Republika Srpska, RS, prosecutors and police. Over the years, much of this evidence has been submitted to the Hague for consideration, but as of October last year the UN court had only given the go ahead for indictments against 661 individuals, to be tried by either the new War Crimes Chamber, WCC, of the Bosnian state court or district courts in RS and cantonal ones in the Federation. The WCC, which will be partly staffed by international prosecutors and judges, will take on politically sensitive cases, leaving the lower courts to process the majority of the trials. Some Bosnian politicians maintain the Hague tribunal should have given the green light for far more indictments, and failed to do so because it was insufficiently resourced to deal with the mountain of evidence provided. However, even if the UN court had approved more cases, it's unlikely that the Bosnian judiciary would be able to cope with them, with the exception of the WCC, few have either the resources or the willingness to mount war crimes prosecutions.

WCC, Prosecution's Special Dept. for war crimes to be launched on 9 March	Oslobodjenje pgs 4-5 'First trial in few months', mentioned on cover, by Aldijana Omeragic – The BiH Court's War Crimes Chamber and BiH Prosecutor's Special Department for war crimes will be officially launched on 9 March, at the ceremony to be attended also by the ICTY President Theodor Merron and ICTY Chief Prosecutor Carla Del Ponte. The detention unit will be handed over to BiH authorities by the HR Paddy Ashdown on behalf of foreign donors. The War Crimes Registry spokesperson, Edita Pejovic, told daily that for the time being no indictment has been submitted to BiH Court for confirmation. Daily says that it could take months before the first trials start, but Pejovic underlines Prosecution and WCC are ready to start. She doesn't deny, however, that once verdicts get to be passed there will be a problem with jail space. The Chief BiH Prosecutor, Marinko Jurcevic, said several weeks ago that there are over 10.000 persons accused for the war crimes.
Attorney Lukic comments on proposal for transfer of cases from ICTY to BiH Court	Nezavisne Novine pg 2 'There cannot be a fair trial in Sarajevo' by SRNA – Branko Lukic, attorney, has stated he disagrees with the initiative that the case Prosecution versus Zeljko Mejakic, Dusan Fustar, Dusko Knezevic and Momcilo Gruban, charged before the ICTY with crimes committed in Prijedor, should be transferred to BiH Court. Lukic, who is legal representative of Gruban, notes: "Our clients would not get a fair trial before BiH Court, owing to pressure of environment."

Former SCG Army Commander Perisic arrives in The Hague/indictment against him made public	Dnevni List cover pg splash and pgs 4 and 5 'Bill of indictment against Perisic made Mostarians angry' not signed, Vecernji List pg 2 'General Perisic went to The Hague' by kj carry that former Yugoslav Army General Momcilo Perisic turned himself in to the ICTY on Monday. According to DL, the war crimes that Perisic has been charged with were committed on 3 locations and they are Sarajevo, Zagreb and Srebrenica, while the war crimes committed in Mostar and Zadar were not mentioned in the bill of indictment at all. For this reason the article carries reactions of former Mostar Mayors Safet Orucevic and Milivoj Gagro, the reactions of leading people of the associations resulting from the war in BiH etc. who cannot believe that the crimes in Mostar were not mentioned in the bill of indictment against Perisic and who believe that this is a big mistake. TV Pink, BHT, TV Hayat, FTV, RTRS, Oslobodjenje pg 7 'Indictment for Srebrenica, Sarajevo and Zagreb', Nezavisne Novine pg 3, announced on cover 'Momcilo Perisic in Scheweningen' by N.N., Glas Srpske pg Perisic arrived', Vecernje Novosti pg 14 'Without fuss and family' by P. Oslobodjenje
op-ed says
HR turns
dismissed
politicians
into obedient persons

Oslobodjenje pg 9 'New bluff' op-ed by Mirko Sagolj – Editorial refers to the HR Paddy Ashdown's announcement made last Friday, on possible audits of the OHR decisions under which officials were removed from their public functions, saying it is a trial to correct mistakes. Those would be cases of "unjust removals" [such as of Nikola Grabovac and Munir Alibabic] or "draconian measures" against some other [for instance, Edhem Bicakcic]. Author underlines that this could have been done long time ago, without such public attention. "However, Ashdown's goal is to turn dismissed politicians into entirely obedient persons again. They are his back-up personnel resource... His message is clear: I return you to politics, but you have to be obedient otherwise I will remove you, and this time permanently," concludes the author.

Ministry of Security denies connection between authorities and organised crime

Nezavisne Novine pg 3 'Ministry of Security denies connection between authorities and organised crime' by D.Muminovic-V.Popovic – Commenting on the annual report of the US State Department claiming that criminals in BiH operate in agreement with corrupt politicians, BiH Deputy Minister of Security Dragan Mektic claims there is no connection between the security structures in BiH and organised criminal groups. Mektic says that it is possible that there were only "dishonourable individuals" and that there is no organised crime in BIH, but only criminal groups. He agrees with the observation that BiH was on the Balkans "drugs route", but added that this was not only a problem for BiH, but also a problem for all police forces in the region. F BiH Interior Minister Mevludin Halilovic has said he learned about the report from the media, but added that he would thoroughly analyse it and draw conclusions. He is of the opinion that the fragmented police force, poor communication and exchange of information are the biggest obstacles in the fight against narco-mafia. Halilovic believes the situation will improve once police is untied. Nongovernmental organization Transparency International has stated that the report is nothing new and that this organisation has for years cautioned about corruption and connections between criminals and those who should fight crime. The Director of the Helsinki Human Rights Committee Branko Todorovic is of the view that there is a connection between the narco-mafia and the top political leadership in BiH.

US annual report on money
laundering:
Smugglers
embezzle $ 500
million a year

Nezavisne Novine pg 2 'Smugglers embezzle $ 500 million a year' by S. Karic – BiH is a significant market and a transit area for goods such as cigarettes, firearms, fuel, as well as human trafficking, the US State Department's annual report on money laundering reads. The State Department claims that the loss of revenues, caused by the growing black market, is estimated at $ 500 million a year. The recent research indicates that between 40-60% of all economic activities in BiH concern grey market. International observers believe that money laundering is wide-spread in BiH and that is often used for political purposes through the existing financial institutions.

SD: Lijanovics were wired

Slobodna Dalmacija, pg 17, mentioned on front 'Lijanovics were wired', by Zlatko Tulic – Commenting on the indictment that was raised against the Croat member of BiH Presidency, Dragan Covic, and others involved, the daily reiterates the information that appeared in the media according to which the Prosecution has based the indictment on a statement of a protected witness who had twice been wired when he was talking to the Lijanovics. SD also notes that Covic should not be filing resignation because of a recent decision of the High Representative for BiH, Paddy Ashdown, "by which earlier decisions of the OHR on ban of public activities of removed BiH officials are being annulled". In that context, SD claims HR Ashdown has been criticized by both Brussels and Strasbourg that he was overstepping his authorities when removing BiH officials. The article concludes by saying a decision to remove Covic at this moment would just pour oil on fire and cause new criticisms.

case

DL comments on indictment against Covic	Dnevni List, pg 2 'Heroes of a mouse hole', by Nermin Bise – Commenting on the indictment against the Croat member of BiH Presidency, Dragan Covic, the author says the whole situation seems to be calming down, adding that a few details have gone by almost unnoticed. Firstly, the author says some people in the HDZ, who hoped to benefit from the indictment, got it wrong, and the end result could see Covic climbing up to the top of the HDZ hierarchy. Secondly, the author notes that the High Representative for BiH, Paddy Ashdown, commended Covic in an interview published last Sunday, when he wished him a successful continuation of political activities on the reform course. In that context DL claims it is perhaps Ashdown's revenge against diplomats, who advocated for Covic stepping down and who openly opposed the HR. "Lord Ashdown already received a second yellow card, whilst stories about his successor have already started", concludes the author.

RHB, Dnevni List pg 6 'Croats against unified Chamber of Commerce at BiH level' by NINA – At the press conference held on Monday President of the Federation of BiH Chamber of Commerce Jago Lasic distanced himself from the initiative for establishment of the Chamber of Commerce at the BiH level. Lasic added: 'De-centralized BiH, as well as de-centralized Chamber of Commerce is the stand of the Croat part of the FBiH Chamber of Commerce and all representatives of the Croat people at all levels should support such stand in terms of both, economy and politics.'
