News Summary

Barry meets with BiH party representatives

Head of the OSCE Mission in BiH Robert Barry met with BiH party representatives and discussed the permanent election law and a possible delay of the elections. Most surveyed parties, as screened by OSCE, decided on a postponement of this year's elections, scheduled for November. If a decision were reached to postpone the elections, it would be until April 2000. The municipal elections would then be held separately from the general elections. As a reason for separating them, Barry said simultaneous elections at municipal and state levels would cause complications. Although a date is not yet set, parties are preparing candidate lists and coalitions and the OSCE is recommending an interruption of these activities until a final decision is reached. A draft of the permanent election law should be ready by mid-July and the BiH Federation Parliament will have it for consideration later this year, but the Parliament will need plenty of time to adopt the law, and then entity and cantonal laws will have to be harmonized with it. The right of voters to cast their votes at the place of their pre-war homes is confirmed.

Brcko Municipality officials meet with OSCE representatives

After a meeting between Brcko municipal officials and OSCE representatives, Sinisa Kistic stated that he supports the idea of creating a permanent election law, and Munib Jusufovic proposed that the mayor be elected outside the political structure, by a citizens' vote. Mijo Anic is of the opinion that no law in BiH can be adopted permanently or be implemented without many annexes.
