first attempt. This also postponed the inauguration of the new President Poplasen who is supposed to take his oath before the Assembly. In this whole thing, the most difficult is for representatives of the CD Coalition that can decide on majority in the Assembly. They will not go with the SDS and the Radicals, but they also do not hide their displeasure with government of Milorad Dodik, who asked them, this time, to quit the co-chairman seat in the Assembly and the demand for participation in the government. This was obviously aimed to gain points with the electoral body of this entity. It is also interesting, which we found out from fully reliable sources, that the International Community representatives also appeared before the delegates with the same demand and that they are obviously trying to soften their wrong pre-electoral assessments now, in the implementation.
