News Summary

BiH Parliament House of Representatives continues 11th session

The BiH Parliament House of Representatives voted for adoption of the law on immigration and asylum with a majority of 18 delegates, but because the necessary number of delegates from the RS was not among those that supported this draft, the law will go into further harmonization. Delegates rejected a dozen amendments related to ensuring BiH citizens' rights to travel to surrounding countries with identification documents. Prior to this, the BiH Council of Ministers also had a different viewpoint on these amendments. Explaining this decision, BiH Council of Ministers Co-chairman Haris Silajdzic stated that any opening of already balanced issues would cause new problems. The SDP proposal for organizing joint forces for the fight against terrorism, inter-entity crime and the drug trade also did not receive delegates' support, which means that this law will also go into further discussion. Delegates were also expected to discuss the report on the BiH Council of Ministers, but it was announced that the Council planned to complete and prepare its report before Thursday. SDP delegates requested the Council's replacement because of their ignoring of Parliament requests and many indicators pointing to the inefficient work of the Council. The SDP emphasized the Council's weakness in preparation of necessary laws and in Dayton Agreement implementation. In individual voting on confidence in the Council, delegates supported the Council.
