News Summary

BiH House of Peoples adopts law on citizenship

The BiH House of Peoples met in a session separate from the House of Representatives in Sarajevo on Tuesday to discuss several draft laws. The House of Peoples adopted the Law on BiH Citizenship unanimously, but conditioned it on a caucus of the Serb delegates. Delegates from the RS demanded that parliament, along with the law, adopt a conclusion asking the BiH Presidency to intensify activities on the establishment of diplomatic relations with Yugoslavia and work on agreements on dual citizenship with Croatia and Yugoslavia. High Representative Carlos Westendorp brought the Law on BiH Citizenship last year.

First press conference of Summit Media Subcommittee

The Stability Pact Summit Media Subcommittee held its first news briefing at Zetra on Tuesday. Subcommittee Chairman Mirza Hajric reported that all preparations for this aspect of the Summit went well, with the exception not yet receiving equipment promised by the EU. Organizers established all infrastructure needs for the 1,400 journalists accredited for the Summit, including an internal taxi service. The journalist will have limited access to the meetings and briefings. Only RTV BiH cameras will be allowed in the conference hall, while TV BiH footage will be rebroadcast to other TV stations via EBU.

Tudjman denies accusations of The Hague Tribunal Prosecutor

After the recent statement of The Hague Tribunal Prosecutor that the nationalistic policy of Croatian President Franjo Tudjman was aimed at dividing BiH, Tudjman's cabinet rejected this as a political comment, not fact. Legal experts and opposition politicians in Croatia speculate that this might be an introduction to an eventual ICTY indictment against Tudjman.

BiH Federation Police Union reacts to Rehn statements

The BiH Federation Interior Ministry Trade Union protested against a recent statement by Elizabeth Rehn regarding alleged corruption among the police in BiH. "As former UN Special Representative, Rehn was deeply involved in the establishment of police forces and made several positive comments about their work" reads a press release issued by the Police Union on Tuesday. "It is hypocritical to now talk about corruption without any evidence."

Stability Pact will not succeed if implemented by same regimes in Balkans – Tokic

"The Stability Pact will be nothing but another way of controlling the countries in the region if the same regimes, which are responsible for the worst period in Southeast Europe, are in charge of its implementation" SDP BiH Vice-president Sejfudin Tokic stated at a press conference in Sarajevo on Tuesday. The SDP BiH announced closer connections with all parties of same political orientation in the region.
