News Summary

EU approves extending BiH trade privileges

The EU Ministerial Council has granted BiH an extension of its most-favored trade privilege status with the EU. The Council welcomed the New York Declaration but did not mention recent conclusions of the RS National Assembly that dispute the Declaration's main conclusions, which is not in the interest of the RS. The EU is disregarding field reports that say the Declaration is not legally binding while giving keen support to strengthening the BiH Presidency and common state institutions, the establishment of the border service and Permanent Election Law, as well as reform of property legislation. In the meanwhile, It seems that BiH is waiting for membership before it receives stronger support from this body, while Croatian membership will depend on upcoming elections. In conclusion, the Council supports and encourages the fight against corruption and creation of a common BiH passport.

International press fails to give full account of Miller statement

On 2 December, international press reported a statement by US Ambassador to BiH Thomas Miller that the BiH Presidency had not signed the New York Declaration. However, the international media failed to mention the second part of Miller's statement, which says that the BiH Presidency presented the Declaration as a UN document, making it binding for all three sides and thus not requiring signatures. The validity and importance of the Declaration have not been brought into question, reads an announcement from the US Embassy.

Frowick emphasizes importance of fight against corruption and establishment of BiH Border Service

Special US Envoy Robert Frowick met with RS Prime Minister Milorad Dodik and Head of Serb Forum of Intellectuals Mladen Ivanic and discussed the importance of fighting corruption and establishing the BiH common border service. After separate meetings with Biljana Plavsic and RS Refugee Minister Miladin Dragicevic, Frowick said his two-day visit to Banja Luka was dedicated to the political and economic situation, returns and elections scheduled for next year. Commenting on corruption, Frowick emphasized the readiness of the BiH Federation and RS Prime Ministers Edhem Bicakcic and Dodik to join forces to combat the problem. Frowick believes that greater cooperation between customs and financial police is necessary, the BiH common border service being essential in this process. He described the New York Declaration as an attempt to re-examine certain aspects that were already signed in Dayton and ways of getting them moving. He added that the US role in the fight against corruption would be to give the OHR its full support, which means contacts with BiH officials at all levels on how this can be achieved.

Petritsch expects returns to increase next year either voluntarily or through OHR measures

High Representative Wolfgang Petritsch visited the Municipal Office of the Canton in Ilidza that has so far received 3,200 return claims. Petritsch described his visit to this highly efficient office as symbolic support to people who do not even have adequate working conditions. He also visited the Stup transit center, where he told refugees that he was expecting significant increase in returns next year, either voluntarily or through OHR measures.

Military aid for Croat component in BiH Federation Army not transparent – Mahmuljin

BiH Federation Deputy Defense Minister Sakib Mahmuljin and Commander of BiH Federation Army Rasim Delic initiated an informal news briefing to discuss integrative processes in the Army, its budget and decreasing its military potential. Mahmuljin said that the "key problem in full integration is the approach being taken in the issue. We Bosniaks desire full integration, a complete change in the defense doctrine. Our partner side, the Croats, do not think this way, of course. They believe that integration has already been completed since the BiH Federation Defense Ministry, Joint Command and certain units have been integrated. That is unacceptable for us since integration will have been completed when the entire chain of command, starting from civilians and BiH Presidency to the last soldier, regardless of affiliation, have been integrated." He added that one of the keys for the integration process is full transparency of aid received by both components of the BiH Federation Army. Mahmuljin said that aid the Bosniak side receives is transparent while the same thing cannot be said for aid the Croat component is receiving from Croatia. "We will follow the guidelines given by the US State Department" he said.
