After conference in Thessalonica, it is clear that the Balkan countries, including BIH, are on the list of potential EU members. Now it is matter of political decisions, speed of reforms implementation and time. This road is very long, because of all that happened to you in the past, but I must say that you are going in right direction."* BiH submitted its report on progress in implementation of reforms in 16 areas to Chris Patten, EU External Relations Commissioner in July. Prodi promised he would discuss BiH's report with Patten, in order to complete EU evaluation report on reforms in BIH until November 1. If BiH gets EU Commission's positive response/recommendation, the SAA (Stabilisation and Association Agreement) negotiations can start at the beginning of next year.

DL critical of reforms in BiH	Dnevni List, Sat, pg 30 'Comrade Paddy, we vow we will not divert from your reform course', by Zvonimir Jukic – carries an op-ed in which the author notes that all the recent talks about the VAT, announcements of steeper prices as a result of more expensive fuel and announcements of strikes during the forthcoming autumn mean we are in for more despair in BiH, which on the other hand burst all the "phoney optimism", which was showered upon us by IC representatives led by Lord Paddy Ashdown, as "soap-bubbles". The author cites the example of the VAT, arguing that a sane person cannot even talk about taxing bread and milk in the situation in which one fifth of the population lives under the level of poverty and in which workers in the steelworks industry make 270 KMs a month, or 0,7% of Paddy Ashdown's sal
DL: BiH citizens to travel across EU without visas soon?	Dnevni List, Sun, pg 5 'Implementation of reforms opens European borders', by Tanja Dragic – Notes that citizens of BiH could soon be travelling to European countries without visas. On top of this, IFIMES notes the worrying fact for BiH is that one would have expected that the citizenry in BiH would have recognized the fatal policy of the ruling national parties by withholding the support to them.

BiH Statistics Agency still not started its

BHT on Saturday – The BiH Statistics Agency has not started to work yet, because Chair and Deputy Chair of the Agency have not been appointed so far. This condition, set by EU, should have been completed in February. The leadership of the Agency should be appointed soon, but this is not the only effort required.

Frane Maroevic, Spokesman of Delegation of European Commission in BiH: “We request a significant progress. Only appointing of the Chair is taking two years. It is disappointing that this has not been done yet.” Without statistics, BiH doesn’t have the key data for determining development policy. Azra Hadziahmetovic, economics expert, says that the late Agency’s operation start will produce negative consequences for BiH. Maroevic says that the EU Commission has foreseen euro 2.5 mill for education of the staff and equipment which are necessary for the Agency, and if the Agency does not start to work soon, this donation will not be implemented. EU demands political stability and economic self-sustaining, which is not possible without relevant statistics data. Statistic data are is also necessary for investments.
