Tuzla – A public proceeding against seven Bosniaks from Srebrenica, who are in a Bijeljina prison, will begin on April 17, but without their lawyers from the Federation. The RS authorities from Bijeljina appointed Serb lawyers, who will work as public defenders, to represent the Bosniaks charged with four murders. After 20 months of wandering throughout the RS territory, those seven men turned themselves into IFOR who delivered them to the Serb police. The BiH TV condemned the IFOR act saying that the Bosniaks were unarmed, and therefore, there was no reason for keeping them in custody.

RS President, Biljana Plavsic, stated there is nothing wrong so far with Farrand's arrival to Brcko at the end of this week. Plavsic expressed her believe that the IPTF will do nothing to contradict the law and will treat all citizens equally. She also said that only by working hard will we make Brcko a model-city in which laws are respected and where there is economic prosperity. Plavsic reiterated that RS has guarantees that in Brcko there will be no resettlement of Serb people. Of 38.000 Brcko residents, 30.000 are refugees that have changed addresses at least two or three times so far.

Plavsic added that the return of Muslim refugees will not be possible without huge foreign investments for reconstruction. If everything goes as foreseen, there is nothing to fear, because the region will develop much faster with such investments, concluded Plavsic.

RS still insists that the International Community exclude the policy of double standards pertaining to investments to RS and the Croatian-Muslim entity. Namely, most of the financial aid of the World Bank and the European Commission stays with Muslims and Croats. This is not in line with what the Inter. Community committed itself to. Out of $270 million, that the World bank approved for the reconstruction of the electric-power industry, only 26% belongs to RS. This was the subject of today's talks in Pale, where Minister of Energy and Industry, Milorad Skoko, met with Bildt's deputy for Economic Issues, Claude Ganz. Also present was the Muslim-Croat Federation Minister Kapetanovic.

Report: The main theme of discussion were investments of the Int. community in the reconstruction of the electric-power industry. Skoko emphasized that an equal approach should be taken, since the Muslim-Croat Federation was privileged so far. He also said that companies from RS should be seconded for the reconstruction work. Ganz promised to influence the Int. community to correct such stands and pointed out that problems should be identified first and than solved gradually.
