Sarajevo – The Human Rights Chamber held a public hearing of five cases [four against both the state and the Federation, and one against the Federation only] with regard to violation of property rights. In four cases, the holders of the occupancy right are former JNA officers who either permanently or temporary lost their right to usage of an apartment, whereas the fifth case is with regard to dispossession of the applicant's father's property. The Chamber found that there are sufficient grounds for pressing charges in all five cases. However, the assistant to the agent of the Federation said that the low-price purchase of military apartments before the war had been carried out on discriminatory basis, therefore the government had to revoke the old purchase contracts so as to give everybody an equal start by adoption of new laws now.

Summary SRT News

Pale – After a meeting with Italian Ambassador Michele Valensise, Momcilo Krajisnik, RS President in the BiH Presidency (sic) told the press that he had warned the Italian diplomat of the possibility of overlapping competencies between BiH and the two entities.

He specifically underlined that some international officials tend to employ such practice, which to him was tantamount to non-implementation of the DPA. Krajisnik went on to say that the Serb side could not agree with such practice, because the entities are states with limited independence, the rights of which are clearly defined. Ambassador Valensise confirmed that his government's view on the implementation of the DPA had not changed, adding that cooperation between BiH and Italy would be improved if the peace agreement were to be implemented with more success.
