(selection of Kosovo-related issues) Richard Holbrooke and President Milosevic held a four-hour meeting in Belgrade today to discuss the Kosovo issue. Before the meeting, Holbrooke told the press that he was going to warn Milosevic of increased activities preparing for possible NATO military action in Kosovo, in the event of Milosevic failing to fulfill the six conditions set up by the Contact Group at their meeting in London last night. Holbrooke and Milosevic are now expected to resume discussions this evening.

According to American diplomatic sources, Germany, at the meeting of the Contact Group in London last night, expressed some reservation in terms of a possible NATO intervention in Kosovo without waiting for a green light by the UN Security Council. The newly elected German President is today visiting the States where he will be meeting with President Clinton to discuss, amongst others, the issue of the Kosovo crisis. AP have reported that Clinton will try to get German support for the position taken by the U.S. Administration and claiming that no new resolution by the UN Security Council should be necessary in the event of a NATO intervention in Kosovo.

The U.S. Ambassador in BiH, Richard Kauzlarich, visited Banja Luka today. After meeting the newly elected RS President, Nikola Poplasen, behind closed doors, Kauzlarich met with Prime Minister Dodik. Kauzlarich stated that the U.S. continued to strongly support Dodik's Government and its policy to ensure the implementation of the DA. In this context, Kauzlarich added, we are also supporting the "Sloga" Coalition. On the Kosovo crisis reflecting in the RS, Kauzlarich said: "I expressed my Government's and my deep concern about statements by SDS and SRS officials regarding a possible military intervention in Kosovo." Kauzlarich also met with RS President Plavsic on the role of the RS Government in implementing the DA and on the Kosovo crisis.

At a regular international press conference in Sarajevo, the Spokesperson for the OHR, Simon Haselock, stated that the HR had warned all politicians in BiH to refrain from making biased or inflammatory statements if the IC should move to take measures in the event of the Kosovo crisis further deteriorating. The HR, Haselock added, will not hesitate to take appropriate measures against those who will work in violation of these principles. The message by the HR relates to all media across BiH, which need to ensure balanced reporting. The message also applies to the re-broadcasting of inflammatory programmes of neighboring countries which are signatories to the DA.

The Spokesperson for the RS SP, at a press conference today, stated that the position of the SP RS on Kosovo was that the crisis there could be resolved in a peaceful way. A military intervention would only complicate the situation in BiH, and lead to its national homogenisation due to different positions of Bosnian political parties and nations on the issue. Commenting on yesterday's decision by the HR depriving Dragan Cavic of his legislative mandate, Radojcic added that the SP RS was against such administrative decisions removing political representatives and their parties.

A press statement has, today, been released by the RS Ministry of Information saying that the RS has been allocated over KM 1 billion as donations and loans by Western European countries and the United States until 30th September this year.
